Paul should be doing his assignments like a good student should, but instead he shoved them all aside and decided to watch some music videos on Youtube VEVO. He had been online for four hours straight without having dinner, or going to the bathroom.

While he was on 'tumble', his mother came into the room and asked, 'Have you tidied your room yet?' 'I'm going to clean it in five minutes,' Paul said. His mom rolled her eyes and left the room without saying a word. Five hours later, Paul was still using his computer, uploading photos onto his computer but when he tried to upload his last photo, something peculiar happened.

Paul's face was appearing on the screen, and his human body was gradually disappearing. Paul was mortified. That was when he realized, he was being uploaded.

Paul's mom came in and saw Paul on his computer screen crying for help. Paul saw his mother and was filled with joy. Paul thought his mom was going to get him out, but his mom had another thought. She gave him a sly smirk and pulled the plug, the monitor went pitch black and Paul was never seen again.

His mom peeled off her mask and revealed herself as an old lady. She pulled out a list of children's names and the list was titled 'computer addicts', she crossed out Paul's name from the list and said, 'One down, time for a new prey'.
