

An email describing an encounter with a celebrity couple (picture story)

I'm glad I'm writing you this message and describing what I'm seeing to you first hand.

It's a sunny and hot afternoon. I'm drinking a cup of coffee in a café. Suddenly, the couple that sit at the next table start arguing. The man is in his mid-thirties. He has blonde, short hair and an oval face but his eyes are blocked by the sunglasses. I can't see his face clearly. He's about 1.8 m tall. He's thin and wearing a white suit. The woman's in her early twenties. She has black, long straight hair. She has a round face and big black eyes. She's about 1.5 m tall. She's wearing a T-shirt and a pair of jeans. She also wears a pair of sunglasses. She's carrying a small backpack.

They're arguing louder and louder now. Although the waiters have tried to stop them, they still keep arguing. After that, the man seems very impatient, he keeps looking at his watch. Suddenly, he stands up and shouts at the woman, 'That's it! We're done!'

Then he tries to leave but the woman yells, 'No!' Suddenly, she grabs the coffee cup from the table and splashes the coffee on the man.

'What are you doing? Are you crazy?' The man shouts. Then he takes off the pair of sunglasses and tries to clean it up. When he removes his sunglasses, I finally discover who he is. He's Kim An Yee, a famous K-pop actor! I feel surprised and suddenly lots of reporters show up. The reporters keep taking photos. Some of them ask him questions but the waiters stop them. How about Kim An Yee and his girlfriend? They leave quickly from the back door and get in a taxi. The reporters also chase after them and the café becomes quiet again.

Do you think it will be the headline of the gossip magazine tomorrow?