A Scary Experience

Last Saturday was a sunny day. I had nothing to do on this day, and wanted to give my lovely dog Danny a sunbath. It was a big German Shepherd. Going down my building, I crossed a few streets near the Central-Mid Levels escalators. As there were not many passers-by on the street, I walked with my dog slowly and looked around. When I turned back to give attention to the dog, a large snake appeared from the brushes and slipped slowly near my dog. I was so scared at the scene.

My dog ran at once, because the dog leash was probably broken. I followed its steps quickly. But no matter how frightening the situation was, I knew escape was not the solution as the snake could travel faster than we could. Therefore, I called "Stop! Danny."

A few minutes later, a snake-catcher from the Agriculture, Fishery and Conservation Department came. And he used some tools to catch the snake. Finally, he caught it together by hand. I gave a hug for my surviving dog.
