In a beautiful dark night, lots of stars twinkled in the sky. I walked along the road that near my house with my lovely dog, Bo Bo. That night, the sky was filled with a sea of stars; the air was cool and clear. That was the end of a busy and hectic day and it was time to relax, I used to think.

But something bad happened at that night.

It was with a good mood when I was near my favourite department store. I decided to buy some snacks for my dog Bo Bo and chose a few gifts for the coming Christmas party.

Bo Bo and I walked to the department store by taking the Mid-Level by taking the escalators. I was thinking about what to buy as gifts while I was taking the escalators.

But suddenly, Bo Bo's leash was cut off and Bo Bo ran away fast. I chased after it immediately, not knowing the reason why. I ran at least the height of three stairs. I breathed with difficulty when I was near enough to reach it. But Bo Bo and I still kept a distance. At that point in time, I heard some hissing sound from the bush at ground level.

A white thing that could move came out from the bush. The white thing looked like a snake. I walked through the bush to look closer.

"Oh! My god!" my hands were over my mouth since I felt so scared. The white thing was in fact a giant powerful snake and it was dashing, gliding swiftly toward Bo Bo! Its fork tongue kept sticking out.

I was almost petrified. I cried, "Can't go there! Please don't go there!" Regardless of danger, I ran towards Bo Bo, held it up and ran to find someone for help.

"Help! Help!....." I screamed while I ran. I looked back, and saw someone was using a net to catch the snake. I stopped running, stood and watched the man catch the snake.

"Do you need help?" I asked loudly.

"Yes! Yes, please..... please help me to call the police," the man replied.

I called the police and stayed with Bo Bo.

Finally, the police and the snake-catcher came, fortunately the snake was caught.
